Seminar Details

DATE: Thursday, 11 September 2014
TIME: 11h30 – 13h30
VENUE: Purcell Room, Edgewood Campus, UKZN

Seminar Overview

Preparing teachers for the challenge of teaching in a continually changing social, biophysical, technological and economic climate is advocated. Transforming teacher education qualifications and programmes to include environmental learning and education for sustainable development are viewed as critical in the CPD and ITE sectors of teacher education. The seminar will showcase collaborative programmes formed to enhance transformative environmental learning through teacher education.

About Fundisa for Change

Fundisa for Change is a collaborative programme formed specifically to enhance transformative environmental learning through teacher education.

It was established as a partnership programme involving many of South Africa's major environmental organisations, including state, parastatal, NGO and private companies, which have an interest in teacher education. Fundisa's core objective is to strengthen the teaching of environmental concepts in schools.
